TRAGIC ENDING

Of a Dance Held Near Oak Grove.

Man Shot to Death and Woman Perhaps Fatally Wounded--Slayer Escapes.

Henry Young, a negro in the Oak Grove neighborhood, killed a man and perhaps fatally shot a woman at a dance Friday night, on the premises of Mrs. Mattie G. Hopson. Nannie Moore, cook at Mrs. Hopson's, had been receiving the attentions of Henry Young but of late a railroad hand named Andrew Houston had become a formidable rival for the favors of the woman. Friday night they all met at a dance at the cabin of a tenant on Mrs. Hopson's place and the trouble came up about nine o'clock. The woman was outside of the house and told Young, who wanted to take her home, that Houston was going with her. This angered Young and he told her she should not go with Houston. This failed to change her purpose and he drew a pistol and shot her in the side. Houston ran out of the house and Young turned the pistol on him, shooting him in the face three times in quick succession. One ball entered his mouth and the others put out both of Houston's eyes. He fell dead in his tracks. The woman was shot through the ball being cut out of the side opposite to the point of entrance. The wound is almost necessarily fatal.

In the confusion following the shooting, Young made his escape. McGaughey-Adams.

INSTANT DEATH

For Six Men in Awful Head End Collision.

L. & N. Horror in Which Two Crews Are Almost Wiped Out.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 12.—Six men were instantly killed, one fatally hurt and another badly injured in a terrific head end collision between two heavily loaded freight trains on the Louisville and Nashville at Tilford's switch, just outside of New Hope, in Nelson county, at 3:50 o'clock this morning. One of the trains was a double header and the two crashed together in the dark with terrific force, catching the train men in the cabs and demolishing the engines, while freight car after freight car piled in a tangled mass over the bodies of the unfortunate members of the crews.

To add to the horror of the scene the cars took fire and in a few moments the wreckage was a roaring furnace, consuming the bodies of those buried beneath the debris and making their rescue an utter impossibility. The body of one of the victims was burned beyond recognition.

The dead are as follows: Engineer Moreland Graves, of No. 31; Engineer Martin Cannon of No. 31; Fireman A. H. Leach, of No. 31; Fireman Wm. Lyden, of No. 31; Engineer Sturgis, of No. 34; Fireman John Reynolds, of No. 34.

The injured brakeman, jaw torn off and body mangled; dying. J. A. Winkler, brakeman, not serious.

The scene of the disaster was appalling. The trains hit on a high embankment between New Haven and Louisville, near Tilford's switch. In a moment the engines and cars caught fire and when daylight came, there was only a smoldering mass of debris left of the three giant engines and thirteen cars. Five bodies of engineers and firemen lay in the ashes and were burned to a crisp. The first body found was hardly recognizable as that of a human being.

Buried under the shattered cars, and the steel and iron with the flames and boiling water all around them were the unfortunate trainmen. Men from the Belle of Nelson distillery were the first to reach the scene, and they went bravely to work to try to rescue some of the victims, although the fire made it perilous. To add to the horrors gunpowder contained in the cars exploded repeatedly. The first man taken out was Brakeman Hume, who is still alive. His jaw was torn away and he was fearfully burned. A moment after Hume was taken out there was an explosion at the very spot where he was lying.

The bodies of Graves, Cannon, Sturgis, Reynolds, Lyden and Leach were in a literal hell and were burned to a crisp.

EDITORS ACCEPT.

Invitation of Kentucky Exhibit Association.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 8--Kentucky Day at the World's Fair will be Thursday, June 2, 1904, and the Kentucky Press Association will be present as the guests of the Kentucky Exhibit Association. These two important matters were settled yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Press Association held at the Galt House here, where President A. Y. Ford and Secretary R. E. Hughes, of the Exhibit Association renewed the invitation extended at the last annual meeting of the Press Association held at Lexington.

There were present the following editors: President Paul M. Moore of the Earlington Bee; Vice President Louis Landrum of the Lancaster Record; Secretary R. E. Morningstar, of the Bowling Green News; and Executive committeemen T. C. Underwood, of the Hopkinsville New Era, and R. W. Brown, of the Louisville Times. President Moore reads an invitation from Walter Williams, commissioner to the Foreign Press for the Exposition, urging the Kentucky editors to attend the world's Fair during Press Parliament week, beginning May 16. Mr. Ford then stated the desire of the Kentucky Exhibit Association to have the newspaper men to come to St. Louis on Kentucky Day, which would be fixed for a time to suit the Press Association. He said Thursday, June 2, had been suggested, as it is Kentucky's natal day. It was forthwith unanimously voted that the invitation of the Exhibit Association be accepted. President Moore was authorized to consult with President Ford relative to the date. This conference resulted in the selection of June 2.

It was then decided that delegates from the Press Association be appointed to represent the organization at the exposition during Press Parliament week, a fortnight before Kentucky Day, and President Moore was clothed with authority to name this delegation. A committee to visit St. Louis, early in December to arrange with the exposition officials details as to the entertainment of the delegates during Press Parliament week and entire Association Kentucky Day appointed consisting of Messrs. Moore, Landrum, Underwood and Hughes.

The coming mid winter meeting of the Press Association was next discussed. It was agreed that this meeting be held Friday, Dec. 11, 1903.

The first committee will go to St. Louis the week prior to the mid winter meeting and give a full report at the meeting, when President Moore will also announce the delegates to the Press Parliament. The Henderson route extended through its Traveling Passenger Agent an invitation to the Press Association to go to the exposition on Kentucky Day, via its system, and the invitation was accepted. The business meeting will be held in Louisville May 30, to June 1. One of the State's best brass bands will accompany the Association to the exposition.

DRESS AND MANNERISMS.

Changes in Styles Have Much to Do with One's Bearing.

"To those of us who are interested in the study of the ordinary phases of humanity," said the observant old gentleman, according to the St. Louis Republic, "there is perhaps nothing more astonishing than to note the change that dress brings about in one's manners. To be a little more definite, let me put it in this way: The change of style in clothes affects the mannerisms of the wearer."

"Why, I hadn't noticed it," exclaimed the hopelessly matter-of-fact person, trying to appear interested as well as surprised by the old gentleman's statement.

"Well, I suppose you are not of sufficiently advanced age to have observed the fact of which I speak," added the elderly one. "But in my case it has made quite an impression."

"Now, for instance, we will take the case of a man first. The stately, graceful deliberation of old men with the decadence of stuff-taking. That, you see, required time and a certain knack of the thumb and other fingers. The ease with which a cigar or a cigarette can be lighted involves no grace or charm of manner. Men in these times are brusque of manner; may not the wearing of thick and clumsy shoes have something to do with it?"

"But it is in the case of women that we see the idea fully exemplified. The mannerisms of the fairer sex vary with the changes of fashion. Let me indicate a few such changes:

"Take the days when the dear things wore hoops. These gave them a mining tread. When they sat down it was with much skill and grace that they smoothed out their skirts, because, you see, a carelessly managed hoopskirt had an irritating way of flying up unless you were vigilant. But when the old 'pull-backs' came in there was a great difference in the walk of your lady fair. She could not walk very freely; she merely glided."

"When the bustle put in an appearance another mannerism came in with it, and every woman duffed up her back draperies when she arose from a sitting position. "Of course, you remember how, a few years ago, when the girls had a way of pulling their veils very tightly across their faces, everyone of them became 'gimberjaws,' from pulling down their veils with their outstretched chins."

"It was not so very long ago that a lady would indulge in the little mannerism of picking out her huge sleeves."

"Just now, take a girl that is in the least embarrassed, or let her be a little more than usually conscious of her personal appearance, and what does she do? Why, her hands automatically fly to her waistline. She gives an unconscious touch to the back of her belt, and then with both hands she pushes it down in front."

"There's no doubt that styles bring mannerisms."

DRAINING THE ZUYDER ZEE
Daring and Picturesque Engineering Project of the Dutch.

The Dutch people propose to reclaim the whole of the Zuyder Zee from the grasp of the ocean, says Walter Wellman, in McClure's. It is a vast, a daring, project, the most picturesque engineering enterprise known to the world to-day. An isthmian canal may cost more money; but an isthmian canal is, after all, only a great ditch. While other nations are seeking colonial expansion the Dutch propose to create a hinterland at home. They propose to reclaim from the waters an area equal to one-fourteenth of all the present Holland. They propose to add nearly one-tenth to the area of cultivable land in their country. They propose to find new homes, where now the sea ranges, for a population equal to four per cent. of all the inhabitants of the Netherlands. The United States an enterprise of relative proportions would involve the creation of a new state like Missouri or Texas, the reclamation of land enough for more than three millions of people to live upon and thrive by agriculture.

Expression He Doesn't Use.

No young man ever considers his best girl too good to be true.

TAKING A DAY OFF.

Professional Men and Their Idea of Having a Good Time.

A party of friends, men whose professions leave them little time for rest or amusement, went into the country for a 24 hours' holiday, resolutely determined to free their minds for that length of time from all ideas connected with their work, says the English Magazine.

"There's to be no talking shop," said the lawyer, "on penalty of exclusion from the company," and everyone agreed with him.

The morning was spent in a long tramp along country roads; then came a hearty dinner at noon, followed by another tramp, which was brought to a close by a heavy shower. The company returned to the inn where they were to have the night, and found a bright fire awaiting them.

"Now let's have an evening of quiet enjoyment with these books," said the doctor. "I saw there are a number here of which I've heard and that I haven't read. What do you say?"

Again everyone agreed, and presently there was no sound in the room save the crackling of the fire, the soft rustle of the pages of book or magazine, and an occasional contented sigh.

"Look here," said the lawyer, suddenly. "What's that the doctor's got inside his book?"

"Eh?" said the doctor, hurriedly, thrusting a small red book and a pencil into his pocket. "I—my mind had just wandered to a case of—well, never mind!"

"Come now, all of us own up what we're really doing!" said the lawyer, and it thereupon appeared that the schoolmaster had discovered an educational report among the magazines and was reading it; the banker had been studying the stock exchange reports, and the clergyman had a slip of paper on which he was making notes for his sermon.

"How about you?" asked the doctor, turning to the legal member of the party. "Have you really been reading that magazine?"

"I have," said the lawyer, handing him the book. "Shake it and see if I've concealed any papers."

"No, you haven't," admitted the doctor; "but the magazine seems to open most naturally at this article, my friend," and he soberly passed the magazine to the clergyman, who read aloud: "Some Curious Cases of Circumstantial Evidence in Criminal Trials."

Royalty Spends Large Sums for Rare Perfumes.

The empress of Russia spends $10,000 a year on perfumes, pastes, soaps and toilet waters, which she has sent to her exclusively from the French capital. Violet is her majesty's favorite scent, says the Detroit Free Press, but her taste in perfumes is so catholic and general that every day she vaporizes the royal apartment with the concentrated essence of lilac, jasmine, narcissus, jonquil, tuberose and white violets. It is not surprising to learn that the air is so heavily impregnated with the scent that the members of her majesty's suite are occasionally indisposed and have to retire from her presence. The empress' toilet water is perfumed with violets, which are gathered specially at Grasse between five and seven o'clock in the evening—the time when, according to her majesty, their perfume is the most delicate. The queen mother of Spain is particularly fond of the essence of a special variety of orchid which is only found in the Philippines. But since the Spanish-American war the queen has lost her liking for this perfume, and now employ "eau d'Espagne," specially made for her in Madrid. The queen of Rumania, who is naturally proud of her white hair and her fresh complexion, which, in spite of her 60 years, does not betray a single wrinkle, attributes it to a marvelous toilet water, of which "Carreau Sylva" alone knows the secret. The water, it is added, is believed to be made from flowers gathered in an unknown forest by certain women sworn to secrecy, who collect the precious leaves under the watchful eye of a cordon of sentinels charged to keep away inquisitive intruders.

Often the Case.

Setbacks are often the secret of success.—Ram's Horn.

THE BOY RECOVERED.

A Prominent Business Man of Hopkinsville Tells About It.

Endorsements such as this: "From all over the world. Are the firm foundation. On which Doan's Kidney Pills Have built a reputation."

M. W. Davis, of Eades & Davis, dealers in coal on East Seventh street, at St. Louis, Mo., and who lives at 508 North Main street, says: "I advise the use of Doan's Kidney Pills in all cases similar to that of my son who for some time complained of backache and was troubled with a kidney weakness which was very annoying at night. We tried many different remedies and he was treated by the family physician, but nothing seemed to do him much good. I learned about Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box at Thomas & Trahern's drug store. He used them and there was a noticeable improvement in a short time. After he had taken all the contents which had proven such an annoyance was entirely relieved. We consider Doan's Kidney Pills certainly worthy of strong endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tulu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will end the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Cook & Higgins, druggists.

Republicans May Contest.

The Republicans have decided to contest the election in Louisville if subscriptions are sufficient to defray the expenses. It will require about $10,000.

Hon. R. B. Bradley, representative from Hopkins county, who has been re-elected by a majority of more than 700 in a county that went Republican last year, is a candidate for Prison Commissioner, with bright prospects of success. There will be several candidates for this desirable place, but Mr. Bradley is conceded to be the leading man in the race and it is doubtful if any combination to defeat him can be formed. He stands close to the administration and some of the strongest leaders in the General Assembly will be his warm supporters.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

An Ancient Foe

To health and happiness is Catarrh as ugly as ever since time immemorial. It causes bunches in the neck, disfigures the skin, inflames the mucous membrane, wastes the muscles, weakens the bones, reduces the power of resistance to disease and the capacity for recovery, and develops into consumption.

"A bunch appeared on the left side of my neck. It caused great pain, was itched, and became a running sore. I went into a general dealer. I was persuaded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had taken six bottles my neck was healed, and I have never had any trouble of the kind since." Mrs. K. T. SYDNER, Troy, Ohio.

The Democrats will make a mistake if they attempt to espouse the cause of Colombia in the matter of the Panama secession. Colombia invited the troubles that came upon her. The people of the United States are getting tired of the canal contention. Public sentiment is strongly behind the idea that when it is built it should be built on American soil. The recognition of Panama should be followed by its annexation.

Archaeologists have recently made an important find 100 miles from Cairo, Egypt. A mound was opened containing among other things a papyrus recording many hitherto unpublished sayings of Jesus. The documents were dated from 137 to 150, A. D.

Both Hunter and Edwards are still claiming the election in the Eleventh district. The Louisville Post gives seemingly reliable figures from all of the counties. Eight counties give Hunter 3,137 plurality and the other 11 give Edwards 3,387, electing him by 250 votes. A contest is certain.

Mrs. Garry Nation made her debut on the stage Saturday night, at Elizabeth, N. J., in the drama "Ten Nights in a Bar-room," which she calls "Hatchetation." The orange crop of Florida is estimated at 1,600,000 boxes this season, the largest output since the disastrous freeze of 1895. The largest crop was that of 1894, when it amounted to 6,000,000 boxes and dropped to 75,000 the following year, owing to the wholesale destruction of the groves.

Twenty-nine Negroes Killed.

New Orleans, Nov. 14.—A rear-end collision on the Illinois Central railroad, near Kentwood, La., eighty-five miles from New Orleans, tonight resulted in the killing of 29 negroes. Ten other negroes and three white men were injured, one of them fatally. The collision was between the McComb City accommodation and the Northern express, bound to Chicago.

Five New Cardinals.

Rome, Nov. 12.—Pope Pius X. held his first public consistory today and conferred the red hat on five new cardinals. It had been expected that one of these would be an American, but it was settled in private consistory a few days ago that the dignity would not be sent across the ocean at this time.

SUMMONS WAS SUDDEN.

W. W. Lacy Dies After Few Hours' Illness.

Mr. W. W. Lacy died rather suddenly at an early hour Friday morning. He had been in the saloon business on East Seventh street for several years.

He had been suffering from rheumatism for a year or more and spent several weeks at Hot Springs last summer. The immediate cause of his death was heart trouble.

He was 57 years old and is survived by a widow and five children. Funeral services were held at his late residence, corner Liberty and Fifth streets, Saturday morning and the interment took place in Hopewell cemetery.

WENT TO SLEEP

On Track And Was Killed by A Freight Train.

James McCoy, of Sadlers, Tenn., was killed by a train just South of Pembroke. He was 49 years old and a contractor and builder. He had a ticket for Trenton, but failed to get off the passenger train at that place, it is said, and was put off before reaching Pembroke. He was drinking and it is thought that he went to sleep on the track, as he not struck for nearly an hour after the passenger had passed.

His body was badly crushed, being hurled twenty or thirty feet by the pilot.

Proverbs

"When the butter won't come put a penny in the churn," is an old time dairy proverb. It often seems to work though no one has ever told why.

When mothers are worried because the children do not gain strength and flesh we say give them Scott's Emulsion.

It is like the penny in the milk because it works and because there is something astonishing about it.

Scott's Emulsion is simply a milk of pure cod liver oil with some hypophosphites especially prepared for delicate stomachs.

Children take it naturally because they like the taste and the remedy takes just as naturally to the children because it is so perfectly adapted to their wants.

For all weak and pale and thin children Scott's Emulsion is the most satisfactory treatment.

We will send you the penny, i. e., a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Scott's Emulsion.

The Great Southwest.

Many farmers in the Northern and Eastern states are selling their big, priced lands and located in the Southwest—in Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas. Many who have been unable to over their homes in the older country are buying land at the low prices prevailing in the new country—$5, $10, $15 per acre and up. These lands are mostly open timber land, some of them possessing a deep rich soil producing corn, wheat, oats, clover, cotton, fruits, and vegetables. Well improved farms are scattered throughout this country. Many places with small clearings and some improvements can be bought very cheap. Our descriptive literature gives fairly good idea of this country. It tells about the soil, crops, climate, people, schools, etc. churches, water, health. It contains maps showing location of counties, towns, railways and streams, and gives names and addresses of real estate dealers in the lands.

Reduced rates for homeseekers and colonists are in effect the first and third Tuesdays of each month, by way of St. Louis, Cairo or Memphis and the Cotton Belt Route. So much for the scheme of empire as it appears on its face. What are some of the hidden possibilities as they have been suggested? A desert reclaimed by irrigation blossoming as the rose and supporting a thriving population, a new France established with an advantage on port on the Atlantic and an outlet through the north to Algeria, the Mediterranean abolished by the boring of a tunnel between Europe and Africa at the straits of Gibraltar, and Spanish cooperation in the schemes to the extent of yielding Morocco to the protectorate of France.

As far as the public goes, at least, it is all supposition, but suppose, by reason of some wonderful new engineering feat the value of all northern Africa from the Atlantic eastward is to rise so enormously as to justify territory grabbing, protectorates and unusual treaties. Through Lebaudy's note, France would have it all within her own grasp. Suppose the French colony of Algeria is to become a rich and populous new France, pushing southward and westward, her cities, founding industries, laying railroads and opening what was in ancient Roman times the garden and granary of Europe.

Suppose the tunnel is built—12 miles of it under the straits—the motto will be "Paris to the Sudan without change of cars." Monsieur Herliet, the distinguished engineer, declares that the work will not cost more than 123,000,000 francs. With Morocco under French protectorate, with Spain satisfied, by who knows what guarantee and the very patent promise of this immense traffic running through her territory, her work becomes a simple matter for French finance and engineering.

Suppose Lebaudy is satisfied for the present to throw dust in the eyes of the people in order that the true purposes may be hidden until they are ripe for revelation. Suppose—but let us wait and see.

Nothing has ever equalled it.
Nothing can ever surpass it.

DREAM OF AN EMPIRE

What Lebaudy's Move on the Sahara May Portend.

Instead of being a "Megalomaniac Empire Builder," the Frenchman May Prove to Be a Long-Sighted Statesman.

Lebaudy, "Emperor of the Sahara," as he calls himself, or "megalomaniac empire builder," as he is denominated in terms of ridicule by the skeptical public, has at least set the world to thinking, and the possibilities and the impossibilities, the avowed purposes and the secret schemes, of the move on the part of the mysterious and ambitious Frenchman are being pretty generally discussed. Jacques Lebaudy is a Paris millionaire who is ridiculously visionary or keenly long-sighted. When he sailed recently for the new dominions over which he proposes to reign, and which is a dreary waste of sand, he proclaimed himself the emperor of the Sahara, and gave out two documents, one a "Notice of the Constitution of the Empire," and the other a new postage stamp in the form of a return envelope for use of those who wish to communicate with the new empire functionaries. As much as $40 has been offered for one of these stamps by collectors. The constitution, in Lebaudy's own hand and reproduced by photolithographic process, reads as follows:

"EMPIRE OF THE SAHARA"—POLITICAL ORGANIZATION.

"The Sahara has been explored and opened to civilization for the first time in the year of 1903 by JACQUES LEBAUDY, who has taken the title of EMPEROR, under the name of JAMES THE FIRST.

This sovereignty is essentially territorial. It bases itself on the principle that from the land is derived all sovereignty. It is the system of feudal law, still in vogue among the principal European nations. For example, England, whose system of nobility has not changed since the Norman conquest.

"As a consequence this sovereignty is entirely different from ideas adapted in France since the revolution (example), "All sovereignty is derived from the people," from which plebiscites, etc. THE EMPEROR OF THE SAHARA exercises a personal power, an absolute sovereignty, over all THINGS.

"But on PERSONS this absolute power is tempered by the most liberal kind of legislation founded on this principle: "Absolute liberty of PERSONS, respect for individual rights pushed to its last limit."

"Capital of the Empire: Trois, situated on the West Coast of Africa at the mouth of the Sahel-el-Hanna, on a bay called the Bay of Lilliput, about 28 degrees, 40 minutes north latitude.

"Principal city: Polis. Polis is situated on the West Coast of Africa on a bay called the Bay of Justice, about 27 degrees 20 minutes north latitude."

So much for the scheme of empire as it appears on its face. What are some of the hidden possibilities as they have been suggested? A desert reclaimed by irrigation blossoming as the rose and supporting a thriving population, a new France established with an advantage on port on the Atlantic and an outlet through the north to Algeria, the Mediterranean abolished by the boring of a tunnel between Europe and Africa at the straits of Gibraltar, and Spanish cooperation in the schemes to the extent of yielding Morocco to the protectorate of France.

As far as the public goes, at least, it is all supposition, but suppose, by reason of some wonderful new engineering feat the value of all northern Africa from the Atlantic eastward is to rise so enormously as to justify territory grabbing, protectorates and unusual treaties. Through Lebaudy's note, France would have it all within her own grasp. Suppose the French colony of Algeria is to become a rich and populous new France, pushing southward and westward, her cities, founding industries, laying railroads and opening what was in ancient Roman times the garden and granary of Europe.

Suppose the tunnel is built—12 miles of it under the straits—the motto will be "Paris to the Sudan without change of cars." Monsieur Herliet, the distinguished engineer, declares that the work will not cost more than 123,000,000 francs. With Morocco under French protectorate, with Spain satisfied, by who knows what guarantee and the very patent promise of this immense traffic running through her territory, her work becomes a simple matter for French finance and engineering.

Suppose Lebaudy is satisfied for the present to throw dust in the eyes of the people in order that the true purposes may be hidden until they are ripe for revelation. Suppose—but let us wait and see.

RELIQS OF A POET

Authenticity of Shakespearean Memorials to Be Investigated.

The Shakespeare Birthplace Trust Formed at Stratford-on-Avon to Search Out Truth in Connection with Each Relic.

What is and what is not worth preserving as a memorial of Shakespeare must always be an interesting question, not only to Englishmen, but to Americans. The Shakespeare Birthplace Trust has been formed to search out the truth in connection with each relic, and see that as far as possible only the plain truth is told about the articles preserved in Stratford-on-Avon.

Even Shakespeare's house is in large part a restoration, a fact duly stated on the souvenir ticket given to each visitor who pays for admission. Fortunately, the birthplace needed less restoration than the adjoining and communicating house, which was John Shakespeare's business place, and is now the museum; yet even the birthplace has had such possibilities of gradual alteration that the late Halliwell-Phillips suggested that of the collarage only could be sure that it remained in the same condition as in Shakespeare's day.

The relics in the house vary considerably in interest. Not one piece of its furniture is known to have been there in Shakespeare's time; though some pieces have been bought by the trustees, because they were in the house early in the last century, and were then shown as being old furniture of the house. The desk from the Grammar school is frankly stated to be Shakespeare's, "by old tradition," and other objects have their claims to notice.

The portraits of Shakespeare include many with incomplete pedigrees, and some of undoubtedly later date than Shakespeare's death. Yet while one "authority" believes in the Ely palace portrait, another is frankly attached to the "Flower" painting at the Memorial theater. Only the Dreshout engraving in the first folio, and the bust in Trinity church have unassailable histories.

The Hathaway house, commonly called Anne Hathaway's cottage, has "nothing but local tradition," with some small amount of confirmatory evidence, on which to rest its claims. Yet what can be stronger than local tradition back to a time when there could be no reason for inventing a fabulous story. Even the name of Shakespeare's wife rested on this same local tradition until comparatively recently. Every church register in the neighborhood had been searched and researched for a record of the marriage, and it was a matter of surprise when a bond for the issue of a special license of marriage between "William Shaxpere et Annam Hathaway" was found in the consistory court of Worcester.

The New Place museum adjoins the site of the house which Shakespeare bought when retiring to Stratford as a successful man, and where he died. Among other things in the museum are a shovel board from the house across the way, which is now the "Falcon Inn," a board which old tradition has associated with Shakespeare as a player of the ancient game of shovel board.

Even at the church the old fact may not be the one at which Shakespeare was christened. We have no contemporary description of the font at which the ceremony took place. But we have the baptismal record—"In the April 28. Quilled mus illius Johannes Shakespeare;" and this is the "old font;" and its style takes us back at least as early as Shakespeare's time.

Pennsylvania's Natural Wealth.

The most valuable of the state's resources are its fuels, in the form of anthracite, bituminous coal, petroleum and natural gas. It is to the possession of these fuels, so asserts Mr. Adanson B. Burk in an article on Pennsylvania in Pearson's, that Pennsylvania owes its supremacy in the iron and steel industry.

It produces nearly all the anthracite mined in the United States, as well as a very large part of the bituminous coal; and for many years it has been the source of main supply of petroleum and natural gas. Although its agricultural resources are overshadowed by its mineral products, it had 224,248 farms in 1900, valued at $98,272,750, with live stock valued at $102,439,181, and its farm products for the year worth $207,855,690. In foreign commerce alone it has fallen behind Philadelphia was at one time the chief commercial port of the country.

Watch the Children.

Children need a parent's closest attention in matters of health, and particularly in carefully observing that the functions of digestion are working perfectly. From the little baby to the rolicking boy or the petted girl, the occasional use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will prove the greatest kind of health builder. How many of us remember during our childhood the time when the bottle of Castor Oil was taken from the shelf and father or mother coaxed us to take it. Children like Syrup Pepsin take it as they would honey. All druggists sell it.

The American Boy for November comes to us with thirty-six pages chock full of material of interest to boys that will keep them busy for many long evenings. This number contains some particularly attractive matter. The first chapter of a story by the editor entitled, "Three Yankee boys in Ireland," being a combined story of travel and history, is thoroughly illustrated, makes its appearance. Appropriate to the month are two excellent football stories—"Harding, Substitute," and "Jack's Two Victories," with an item on "How to Train for Football."

SOME QUEER RULES.

Directions Governing the Household of Henry VIII. of England. The only alteration in the following, says the London Mirror, is the difference of the orthography. They are extracts from a curious manuscript, containing directions for the household of Henry VIII. of England.

"His highness' attendants are not to steal any locks or keys, tables, forms, cupboards or other furniture of noblemen's or gentlemen's houses, where he goes to visit.

"Master cooks shall not employ such scullions as go about naked or lie all night on the ground before the kitchen fire.

"No dogs to be kept in the court, but only a few spaniels for the ladies.

"Dinners to be at ten and suppers at four.

"The officers of his privy chamber shall be loving together, no grudging or grumbling or talking of the king's pasture.

"There shall be no romping with the maids on the staircase, who which dishes and other things are often broken.

"The pages shall not interrupt the kitchen maids.

"The grooms shall not steal his highness' straw for bed, sufficient being allowed them.

"The brewers not to put any brimstone in the ale.

"Twenty-four leaves a day for his highness' greyhounds.

"Ordered, that all noblemen and gentlemen at the end of the session of parliament depart to their several counties, on pain of royal displeasure."

PHAROAH'S CORN A FAKE.

Crop Prover to Have Come from Seed a Boy Planted.

Some time ago there was a wonderful story in the European journals about certain grains of ancient Egyptian corn which had been planted in Germany and had duly come to life.

The grains, they said, had been found in an Egyptian sarcophagus and had been planted by a Dresden florist. Some days later the corn appeared above ground, much to the surprise of scientists, who did not suppose that there was life in grains which were 4,000 to 5,000 years old.

The corn, however, says Stray Stories, was certainly growing, and even the most incredulous among them soon became convinced that grains have a lease of life to which there is practically no limit.

Alas! A boy employed by the Dresden florist has now confessed that he planted some ordinary grains in the same place where his master had planted the Egyptian ones and only a few hours after the florist had completed his work.

This was sad news for the scientists and for the numerous journalists who had written enthusiastically about the miraculous qualities of the ancient grains.

Facts About the Deep Sea.

Great Britain and America do more deep sea measuring than all the other nations put together. More than one-half of the sea floor lies at a depth of a little less than three miles. Some of the deepest places are holes in the ocean bed. One of these in the North Atlantic covers 7,000,000 square miles, or seven per cent. of the surface of the globe. The Indian ocean is the greatest place for deep waters, 24 out of the known 43 "holes" lying at the bottom of that body of water. Sea near the coast usually slopes away gradually to a depth of 600 feet, and then drops rapidly to a depth of 6,000 feet. Variations of temperature do not extend deeper than 600 feet. Below that the temperature never varies.

A Sure Thing.

It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. B. VanMetre, of Shepherdstown, W. Va., says: "I had a severe case of Bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of, but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It's infallible for Croup, Whooping Cough, Grip, Pneumonia and Consumption. Try it. It's guaranteed by R. C. Hardwick, druggist. BUILDINGS NEVER FINISHED.

Curious History of Some Enterprises Begun Long Ago in England.

A fine church in the village of Hassall, near Sandbach, has been the sport of all the winds that blow since about 1837, says Stray Stories.

Begun in 1836, and designed to seat some 500 people, it grew steadily till shortly after the accession of Queen Victoria in the following year.

The day after that historical event the founder—a private gentleman—was seized with a fatal illness, and consequently his intentions were unfulfilled, notwithstanding that the structure was so far advanced that there is a row of half-built cottages. This congregation of bricks and mortar was thrown together on an uncompleted church in Somerset. According to local report, too, a church at Stourport, in Worcestershire, is never to be finished, although it has been in course of construction for a very long period.

Near a railway in a certain Lancashire town, for instance, there is a row of half-built cottages. This congregation of bricks and mortar was thrown together many years ago by an enterprising speculator, who thought that the railway would be carried across the land which it occupies, and that he would therefore be able to sell at an excellent profit.

But his anticipations were not realized, so he left the embryo cottages to their fate. On his death his estate passed into chancery, and this and other reasons it is extremely improbable that the property will ever be finished.

Numbers of structures now in a more or less ruinous condition are so because the builders laid their plans too hastily. A curious instance is a part of a lighthouse on the summit of St. Catherine's hill, in the Isle of Wight.

When this edifice was well advanced the tardy discovery was made that, owing to the height to which it would reach, fog or clouds would obscure the beacon at the top. The structure was consequently abandoned.

Equally curious is the history of a picturesque ruin on Mow cop, near Congleton. A certain gentleman determined to build a castle on this eminence.

When it was nearly completed the owner of the adjoining estate came forward and claimed that the hill top was in his domain. So, in fact, it proved, and as a result the proposed castle remains unfinished to this day.

There are, moreover, some buildings which are designedly incomplete. Near Southport stands a residence which, though it seems to be finished, always has men working on it—painters, paper-hangers, etc.

The reason it is continually in the hands of such artisans is that when it is completed it must be surrendered; so the occupier takes care that it cannot be pronounced finished. In fact, it will never be completed.

Cathedrals will never be really finished. Large staffs of masons, etc., are permanently engaged on them, as men are always painting the Forth bridge and others are repairing the Liverpool landing stage.

They Expect Rewards.

A lady doctor to an Indian hospital tells of the trouble sometimes entailed in inducing the friends of a patient to allow her to remain there until she is really convalescent. Directly a sufferer is a little better they desire to take her home. Patients who remain for any length of time in hospital, commonly regard themselves as real heroines; and most peculiar of all, when a patient has been preserved from almost certain death she very likely argues that this fact must greatly enhance the doctor's reputation, and so she expects a present of a gaudy cotton or silk petticoat as a reward for having afforded such an opportunity.

A Tree in a Tree.

At Moulton, South Lincolnshire, there is a willow tree which, in consequence of having been headed and having reached an old age, has become hollow and rotten. From a seed which has dropped into the hollow a healthy sycamore tree has grown to a height of ten feet.

Mr. Bryan had expected to sail several weeks ago, but was detained by the Philip S. Bennett case. He will be gone several weeks.

A child of Mrs. Geo. T. Benson, when getting his usual Saturday night bath, stepped back against a hot stove which burned him severely. The child was in great agony and his mother could do nothing to pacify him. Remembering that she had a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house, she thought she would try it. In less than half an hour after applying it the child was quiet and asleep, and in less than two weeks was well. Mrs. Benson is a well known resident of Kellar, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic liniment and especially valuable for burns, cuts, bruises and sprains. For sale by Cook & Higgins, druggists.

CONDITION IMPROVED.

Surgical Operation Performed on Ex-Gov. John Young Brown.

Henderson, Ky., Nov. 11.—Ex-Gov. John Young Brown left his office on last Friday, saying he felt very unwell. He remained at home on Saturday and telephoned his son, Dr. John Young Brown of St. Louis to come to him at once. Dr. Arch Dixon was called into consultation and a surgical operation was performed on the governor which gave him great relief. His condition is somewhat improved.

"One of my children was taken with cramp colic and suffered severely," says S. B. Elizee, of Monett, Mo. "I telephoned for a doctor, then gave a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and a few minutes later a second dose. Before the doctor came the child was relieved." For sale by Cook & Higgins, druggist.

CLIMING CHAIR

"The Henderson Route"—Always First.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 29, 1903.—The traveling public will be pleased to learn of the latest innovation in the way of comfort in travel for its patrons which is now being offered by that most popular railway, The "Henderson Route," which road has been rightly termed the "Traveler's Official Route."

It has just been announced from the general office of the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis railway that they now have in service on their night trains between Louisville and St. Louis, Free reclining Chair Cars, which have just been received from the shops and are a revelation in the car builder's art.

The cars are strictly up to date. First-class "palaces of travel" on wheels, and which are promised the public by the Henderson Route.

Among other advantages offered in these highly finished cars, a few of the most important points are mentioned:

They are solidly vestibuled and are furnished with sixty-four reclining chairs, which are upholstered in beautiful green plush, in addition to smoking and toilet rooms being finished throughout in leather. They are also fitted up with triple trucks, which feature will do away with the jerk, jar and strain incident to travel in the ordinary railway coaches. It ensures a smooth, comfortable ride. This should prove more than a popular feature in train service to the traveling public, and we can only suggest that you get the "Henderson Route" habit.
